Below is a list of products we use and recommend!

- Playpen: At night, and when we cannot supervise the puppies, they are kept in a playpen setting along with food/water, the litterbox, and toys.

- Nutrical: we highly recommend having Nutrical on hand.
Please do your research about hypoglycemia prior to getting your new puppy. Nutrical is always good to have on hand and give to the puppies throughout the day to keep their blood sugar levels from dropping.

- Food: We start the puppies out eating Diamond Naturals Small Breed Puppy Food. Upon the arrival of your new puppy, we do provide a small container of the food your puppy is currently eating. If you wish to continue the food that your puppy is currently eating, please see the below. If you plan to transition your puppy to a new food, we recommend SLOWLY introducing the new food. It is advised to feed your puppy the food he/she is currently eating for the first few weeks upon receiving your puppy, just to let them adjust to their new homes and not get upset tummies.

- Litterbox/Litter: Our puppies get a head start to potty training by being litterbox trained! We have had great success with it in the past. It is a much cleaner and less smelly version of puppy pads.

- Toys: We recommend "brain games" for the puppies to keep them entertained! Also, puppies love crinkly toys! I recommend the medium sized Kong toys. If the Kong toy is too small, the puppy may become bored with the toy, from not being able to retrieve the treat placed inside the Kong.

- Misc. Items: Below are some additional items we recommend.

I highly recommend a collar with a bell! These puppies are tiny and the bell lets you know where they are without seeing them. I always recommend taking the collar off when unattended though.

- Treats: As far as giving your puppies treats, I recommend slowly introducing treats. These little pups have sensitive stomachs, which is why it is important to slowly introduce treats. I HIGHLY recommend to NOT feed any rawhide treats. As rawhide can be hard for dogs to digest, and can potentially result in blockage, leading to potential surgery for removal.

Below are some treats that are made for puppies, but please monitor the puppies at all times while given chew treats.
